

Navya – Making Cancer care accessible and affordable

Navya, a Bangalore-based clinical informatics company, founded in collaboration with Tata Memorial Centre (TMC) and National Cancer Grid (NCG), provides online expert opinions to cancer patients.

This service allows patients to upload their reports and get a response from world renowned experts within 24 hours. Anyone can register on Navya and receive an expert opinion from the comfort of their home. Since 2015, Navya's Online Expert Opinion Service has been used by over 28,000 patients from 68 countries.

While diagnosing the presence of cancer can be relatively straightforward, treatment is highly specialized and the number of experts experienced in managing complex cases is very few. Many cancers are curable or can be managed for a number of years if diagnosed early and treated appropriately. Choosing the right therapy can be the difference between the best possible outcome and failed treatment. For the first time, quick and affordable access to evidence and experience based expert treatment decisions is available to every cancer patient.

Gitika Srivastava, Founder of Navya, says: "With Navya, you can be assured that the opinion rests on the experience of world-renowned cancer experts collaborating for the best possible treatment plan suited to your loved one's case. This is critically important as cancer decisions are complex and often involve several organs and types of treatments."
